

The Veterans History Project is coming to the Soo to interview Vietnam Veterans

The Library of Congress' Veterans History Project collects, preserves, and makes accessible the personal accounts of American war veterans so that future generations may hear directly from veterans and better understand the realities of war. Its Vietnam War project covers the 1961 to 1975 period. Our veterans' personal stories provide a richer picture of an important historical period, and are invaluable to informing the public about our history.

Kanava International is assisting the Department of Defense (DoD) to identify Vietnam Veterans in the Upper Peninsula who are interested in participating in the Vietnam War interviews.

A team from the Department of Defense will be in the local area during June 24 to July 1, 2016 to interview men and women who served in the Vietnam War. As a special opportunity, Joe Galloway, author (with Lt. Gen. Harold Moore) of We were soldiers once...and young and We are soldiers still, will conduct some of these interviews.

Please support this important opportunity for area Vietnam Veterans to tell their stories.

If you would like to participate or have any questions, please contact Devon Hardy -
